NetEase.com Announces Record Third Quarter Results

Financial Highlights for the Third Quarter 2003:

- Total revenues grow by 96.6% year-over-year to RMB146.3 million (US$17.7 million) led by growth in the Company's online game business
- Continued revenue growth and reduction of cost of sales result in further enhanced gross margins of 82.8%
- Company achieves operating profit of RMB87.1 million (US$10.5 million) and net profit of RMB84.1 million (US$10.2 million), or US$0.33 per American Depositary Share (basic)

(Beijing - October 28, 2003) - NetEase.com, Inc. (Nasdaq: NTES), a leading Internet technology provider in China, today announced financial results for its third quarter ended September 30, 2003.

The Company reported total revenues of RMB146.3 million (US$17.7 million) for the third quarter, a 7.4% increase over total revenues of RMB136.2 million (US$16.5 million) for the preceding quarter ended June 30, 2003 and a 96.6% increase over total revenues of RMB74.4 million (US$9.0 million) for the corresponding period in 2002. The Company reported a net profit of RMB84.1 million (US$10.2 million), or US$0.33 and US$0.30 per basic and diluted American Depositary Share, respectively, compared to the previous quarter's net profit of RMB75.8 million (US$9.2 million), or US$0.29 and US$0.28 per basic and diluted American Depositary Share, respectively. The same quarter in the previous year had a net loss of RMB9.0 million (US$1.1 million).

Revenues from SMS and other e-commerce services for the quarter were RMB62.7 million (US$7.6 million), representing a 20.7% decrease over the preceding quarter's RMB79.1 million (US$9.6 million), and a 20.1% increase over RMB52.2 million (US$6.3 million) for the corresponding period a year ago. The decrease in SMS and other e-commerce services revenues from the previous quarter was attributable primarily to the strengthening of competition in the wireless service area, the discontinuation of the Company's cooperation arrangements with certain third-party Web sites which were promoting the Company's wireless services, and the decision by the two mobile phone operators in China to restrict the range of services that the Company can offer and charge through them. In response to these changes, NetEase began to offer a number of previously fee-based products for free in the meantime, with an aim of further enhancing their popularity and accumulating a larger user base which would put the Company in a position to capitalize on its accumulated user base when alternative payment solutions become available.

Online game service revenues for the quarter were RMB56.5 million (US$6.8 million), representing a 55.9% increase over the preceding quarter's RMB36.2 million (US$4.4 million) and a 366.8% increase over RMB12.1 million (US$1.5 million) for the corresponding period a year ago. Strong growth in this revenue segment was largely due to the continued increase in popularity of the Company's self-developed online game title, Westward Journey Online Version 2, which had approximately 1.2 million unique paying users during September 2003.

Advertising service revenues were RMB27.1 million (US$3.3 million) for the quarter ended September 30, 2003, representing a 30.0% increase over RMB20.8 million (US$2.5 million) for the preceding quarter and a 168.7% increase over RMB10.1 million (US$1.2 million) for the corresponding period a year ago. The growth of advertising service revenues was mainly attributable to the continued strong growth of the overall online advertising sector in China.

The Company reported gross profit in the third quarter of RMB121.2 million (US$14.6 million), increasing 12.7% over the previous quarter's RMB107.5 million (US$13.0 million) and 141.0% over RMB50.3 million (US$6.1 million) for the corresponding period a year ago. The revenue growth coupled with a reduction in cost of sales favorably impacted gross margins, which increased from 78.9% in the preceding quarter to 82.8% in the third quarter. The reduction in cost of sales was mainly due to the saving of commissions payable resulting from the discontinuation of the Company's cooperation arrangements with certain third-party Web sites which were promoting the Company's wireless services as mentioned above.

Total operating expenses were RMB34.1 million (US$4.1 million), a 15.3% increase from the previous quarter's RMB29.6 million (US$3.6 million) and a 44.1% decrease from the corresponding period a year ago of RMB61.0 million (US$7.4 million). This increase was largely due to expenses incurred in connection with the Company's convertible notes offering which was completed in July 2003.

The Company reported an operating profit of RMB87.1 million (US$10.5 million) in the third quarter, representing continued improvement over last quarter's operating profit of RMB77.9 million (US$9.4 million). In the third quarter of previous year, the Company had an operating loss of RMB10.7 million (US$1.3 million).

Net interest income increased to RMB3.6 million (US$0.4 million) in the third quarter, compared to RMB1.9 million (US$0.2 million) in the previous quarter, due to the additional cash balance derived from the convertible notes offering and from the Company's cash flow from operations.

The Company reported a net profit of RMB84.1 million (US$10.2 million) in the third quarter, an increase of 11.0% over the previous quarter's net profit of RMB75.8 million (US$9.2 million) and comparing well to the net loss of RMB9.0 (US$1.1 million) for the corresponding period a year ago. The increase in the effective tax rate during the third quarter is primarily due to a higher proportion of profit being earned in a subsidiary company which has a higher tax rate than the other group companies when compared to the second quarter.

As of September 30, 2003, the Company's total cash balance was RMB1.6 billion (US$192.6 million), a 118.4% increase from the previous quarter's RMB729.9 million (US$88.2 million). The increase was mainly attributable to the issuance of the Zero Coupon Convertible Subordinated Notes in the aggregate amount of US$100 million in July 2003. Cash flow generated from operating activities was approximately RMB102.3 million (US$12.4 million) during the quarter.

Other Developments

Users of the Company's Web sites continued to grow, with 144 million accumulated registered accounts at the end of the third quarter, an increase of 12.9% over the 127 million accounts at the end of the previous quarter and a 78.1% increase over the 80.7 million accounts at the same time a year ago.

During the quarter, the Company implemented several enhancements to its Web sites. For example, the Company began to aggressively promote its new Instant Message (IM) tool (popo.163.com), a community-oriented communication platform highly popular among NetEase's younger demographic. NetEase's IM tool allows users to send SMS messages directly from a PC to a mobile phone, from a mobile phone to PC, and from a PC to a PC. By offering the PC-to-mobile phone instant messaging service for free until the end of the year, NetEase is bearing the SMS transmission cost of the new service as an investment to further strengthen its relationships with its current users and expand its user base. IM users bring strong revenue potential as particularly loyal users, and IM messages are moreover sent to and received by NetEase and non-NetEase users alike. The offering of the free service has proven very effective and is already showing strong growth in terms of the number of registered users and traffic volume so far.

In September, the Company entered into an arrangement with MTV, the music television company, to be the exclusive wireless partner of MTV in Mainland China. Under this arrangement, NetEase users have the ability to send short messages to MTV video jockeys to request songs, subscribe to special services and clubs, request pictures and information about performers and participate in various contests.

Additionally, in September, the Company launched its online job search service (job.163.com), taking advantage of its large user base and more than 320 million average daily pageviews. Matching employers and job seekers, the service was initially provided free-of-charge to businesses and users, and changed to a fee-based service in October.

The Company continued to improve and revamp its content channels, with two new content channels launched during the quarter - Business Channel (biz.163.com) and Consumer Guide

[COMPANY LOGO]

Channel (buy.163.com). The Business Channel is a new "interactive content channel" focusing on business affairs and in-depth analysis of the China market, CEO interviews, business reviews and management training. The Business Channel supports popular "web logs" features by which users not only read the content, but also can share opinions and create a personal forum to attract other users' feedback. The Consumer Guide Channel is dedicated to better consumer education. It offers original product review articles, price and market information, news about latest products to be launched and features on user applications and modifications. In the initial stages, the channel will focus on digital products like digital cameras, portable music players, PC hardware and peripherals, and mobile phones.

Commenting on these third quarter results, Ted Sun, acting Chief Executive Officer and Director of the Company said, "We are pleased with our results this past quarter, which continue to benefit from NetEase's diversified revenue strategy. Our revenues in both advertising and online games continue to be robust. And while our revenues from SMS and other E-commerce services were slower for the quarter, we are confident that our investments in our new free-of-charge offerings will provide long-term benefits through increased loyalty and an expanded user base."

"Advertising service revenues continues to show strong growth given the widening realization among advertisers that the Internet is a mainstream media and our younger demographics as a highly desirable consumer base with spending power. Additionally, our enhancements to the NetEase Web sites in this past quarter demonstrate our ongoing commitment to understanding our customers and offering products and services specific to their tastes and interests. Our new IM offering, for example, which has exhibited strong initial success, serves as a useful 'sticky' communication application that brings users into our Web sites and enhance the possibility that they use our other wide assortment of products and services. Through other services, such as our new online job search service, we are ensuring that we grow alongside with our users as they get older, and expand their interests."

Mr. Sun added, "We continue to see significant opportunities with our online games, which continues to experience high growth despite increasing competition and beginning of the school season. The strong growth of our online game business has once again proved the different possibilities of monetizing the Internet user base. At the end of this year, we plan to launch our newest game, also developed in-house, and we are confident that this offering will further strengthen this important revenue segment."

Denny Lee, NetEase's Chief Financial Officer, added, "This quarter represents our fourth consecutive report of operating profitability for the Company. This, combined with our healthy balance sheet and strong cash position, give the Company a solid financial footing to take advantage of future opportunities for growth and expansion in our market."

"In conclusion," said Mr. Sun, "NetEase continues to be well positioned, both in terms of our revenue segments and our user base, which is responding well to our new products and services. Going forward we will continue to focus on innovative offerings that differentiate our Web sites and appeal to our users."
